Emmanuel NGANOU D.

the 1990s, the number of people in the world who are illiterate has increased from 400 million to 600 million.

There are many reasons for this. One is that the population of the world is growing so fast that the number of people who are illiterate is increasing.

Another reason is that the quality of education is so poor that many people who are literate are unable to read and write.

There are also many people who are illiterate because they do not have access to schools.

Finally, there are many people who are illiterate because they do not have the time or money to go to school.

It is clear that there are many reasons why so many people in the world are illiterate.

It is important that we find ways to help these people learn to read and write.

There are many organizations that are working to help people learn to read and write.

One of the most important is the United Nations Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization (UNESCO).

UNESCO has many programs that help people learn to read and write.

One of these programs is the Literacy Campaign, which helps people learn to read and write.

Another program is the Basic Education Program, which helps people learn to read and write.

There are many other organizations that are working to help people learn to read and write.

It is important that we all work together to help these people learn to read and write.

Only then can we hope to have a world where everyone is literate.

Let us all join together to help these people learn to read and write.

Only then can we have a world where everyone is literate.
