1. Background and Justification

Cameroon's food system continues to face persistent structural challenges, notably high dependence on food imports, rising production costs, and vulnerability of domestic supply chains. In response, the Government of Cameroon has adopted the Plan Intégré d'Import-Substitution Agropastoral et Halieutique (PIISAH) 2024–2026, a strategic national framework aimed at strengthening food sovereignty through increased local production, value addition, and improved competitiveness of priority agropastoral value chains.

PIISAH targets seven key food systems—rice, maize, wheat and local flours, palm oil, fish, soy/millet/sorghum, and dairy/beef—as critical levers for reducing import dependence. Under Axis 2: Improvement of Production, Processing, and Marketing, PIISAH places particular emphasis on improving access to quality inputs, strengthening local production systems, developing reliable seed systems, and reducing post-harvest losses as prerequisites for sustainable import substitution.

The North West Region is one of Cameroon's major agricultural production basins and plays a strategic role in national food security, particularly for maize, which is a priority crop under PIISAH. The Region benefits from a strong network of organized farmer groups and cooperatives with proven experience in seed multiplication, offering a solid institutional and technical foundation for the development of sustainable local seed systems. However, productivity remains constrained by insufficient local production of certified seed, dependence on costly external seed sources, and logistical challenges linked to insecurity.

To address these constraints and operationalize PIISAH Axis 2 at the regional level, the Government has allocated CFA 900,000,000 to the Mission de Développement du Nord-Ouest (MIDENO), of which CFA 750,000,000 is earmarked for maize and wheat seed production. An amount of CFA 500,000,000 is specifically dedicated to the production of certified maize seed.

In this context, MIDENO has signed a performance contract with the Government, represented by MINADER, clearly specifying the applicable terms, conditions, and performance standards for the implementation of this intervention.

Following a detailed technical analysis that considered agro-ecological conditions, security constraints, and realistic yield potentials, MIDENO proposes the production of 250 tons of certified maize seed on 167 hectares as a technically sound and high-impact intervention aimed at strengthening food security, stabilizing seed supply, and enhancing farmer resilience.

2. Justification of Cost of Production

Normally, the cost of production of 1Kg of certified maize seed ranges from cfa 800-1200 francs. However, MIDENO operates under a social development mandate. Consequently, the relatively high unit cost of seed production reflects the full integration of production, processing, certification, packaging, storage, transportation and distribution costs in a challenging operational environment, rather than commercial profit considerations. The maize seed produced under this component shall therefore be distributed to farmers at a subsidized price, with proceeds from seed sales recycled into subsequent production cycles. This revolving mechanism is intended to ensure the continuous and sustainable availability of certified maize seed in the North West Region, while progressively reducing long-term dependence on public financing.

To ensure efficiency, transparency, and compliance with national seed quality standards, a main service provider shall be selected through a competitive tendering process to implement the production activities under the technical supervision of MIDENO and other competent technical services, notably the Regional Delegation of Agriculture and Rural Development (RDARD).

3. Objective

To produce, process, package, and distribute 250 tons of certified maize seed from 167 hectares in the North West Region, in compliance with national seed quality standards, while ensuring affordability through subsidized pricing and sustainability through a cost-recovery mechanism.

4. Specific Objectives

- Ensure sustainable availability of quality certified maize seed for vulnerable farmers
- Strengthen institutional and community-based seed production systems
- Support trained and certified seed multipliers with essential agricultural inputs
- Ensure strict compliance with national seed quality and certification requirements
- Promote increased maize productivity, food security, and farmer resilience
- Establish a revolving seed production mechanism through partial cost recovery

5. Methodology

Maize seed production shall be acquired through selected and approved seed multipliers in Mezam, Boyo and Ngoketungya Divisions.

Key Activities

The retained main service provider shall be responsible for:

- Organizing and coordinating field production activities
- Supporting seed multipliers with production planning and field management
- Facilitating access to foundation seed and fertilizers
- Coordinating harvesting, processing, packaging, and branding
- Supporting seed storage and distribution logistics

6. Quality Assurance and Supervision

- MIDENO, in collaboration with the competent technical services, shall ensure continuous follow-up to guarantee that all stages of production comply strictly with national seed quality, certification, and phytosanitary standards.
- Field inspections, processing audits, and certification procedures shall be conducted in accordance with applicable regulations.
- Only seed that meets prescribed quality standards shall be approved for packaging and distribution.
- The supplier shall ensure that all foundation seed material is acquired from IRAD

7. Expected Outputs

- 250 tons of certified maize seed produced and certified

- 167 hectares cultivated under approved seed production standards
- Improved technical capacity of seed multipliers
- Subsidized distribution of maize seed to vulnerable farmers across the North West Region
- Operational revolving mechanism for sustained seed availability

8. Expected Maize Production and incidence on imports

Under this intervention, a total of 250 tons of certified maize seed will be produced and distributed to farmers across the North West Region at a subsidized price. With an average maize seed rate: 20–25 kg per hectare and assumed average yield: 2 tons of food maize per hectare, reflecting conservative yields under smallholder conditions, 250 tons of certified maize seed is expected to support the cultivation of approximately 10,000 to 12,500 hectares, generating an estimated 20,000 to 25,000 tons of food maize under conservative yield assumptions of 2 tons per hectare. The strategic contributions of this activity will include significant increase in domestic maize supply, reduced dependence on maize imports and strengthened food security and farmer incomes

9. Implementation Arrangements

- Contracting Authority: Oversight of procurement and contract management
- Main Service Provider (selected through tendering): Execution of production, processing, and packaging activities in accordance with contract specifications
- MIDENO: Overall coordination, supervision, monitoring, and management of the subsidy and cost-recovery mechanism
- Technical Services (including RDARD): Seed inspection, quality control, and certification

10. Duration

The assignment shall cover one agricultural production cycle (6–9 months).

11. Reporting

The main service provider shall submit:

- Monthly operational progress reports
- Quarterly technical and financial reports

A final comprehensive report detailing production results, seed quality compliance, distribution, and cost-recovery outcomes.

1. Background and Justification

Cameroon continues to face structural challenges in its food system, including high dependence on food imports, rising production costs, and vulnerability of domestic supply chains. To address these challenges, the Government of Cameroon adopted the Plan Intégré d'Import-Substitution Agropastoral et Halieutique (PIISAH) 2024–2026, a strategic framework aimed at strengthening national food sovereignty through increased local production, value addition, and improved competitiveness of priority agropastoral value chains.

Within this framework, wheat and local flours are priority crops for import substitution. Wheat remains a strategic staple for food security in the North West Region, but productivity is constrained by limited access to quality certified seed and reliance on costly external sources.

To address these constraints and operationalize PIISAH Axis 2 at the regional level, the Government has allocated CFA 900,000,000 to the Mission de Développement du Nord-Ouest (MIDENO), of which CFA 750,000,000 is earmarked for maize and wheat seed production. An amount of CFA 250,000,000 is specifically dedicated to the production of certified wheat seed.

In this context, MIDENO has signed a performance contract with the Government, represented by MINADER, clearly specifying the applicable terms, conditions, and performance standards for the implementation of this intervention.

Following a detailed technical assessment of agro-ecological conditions, achievable yields, and operational constraints, MIDENO proposes the production of 100 tons of certified wheat seed on 63 hectares. This intervention leverages the Region's organized wheat seed farmers and aims to establish a reliable, locally anchored wheat seed system.

2. Justification of Cost of Production:

The production of certified wheat seed in the North West Region is estimated at a unit cost of CFA 1,000–1,500 per kilogram, reflecting the full integration of production, processing, certification, packaging, storage, transportation, and distribution costs in a challenging operational environment. MIDENO operates under a social development mandate, so these costs do not include commercial profit margins. The wheat seed produced will be sold to farmers at a subsidized price, and revenues from seed sales will be recycled into subsequent production cycles, creating a revolving mechanism to ensure the sustainable and continuous availability of certified wheat seed while gradually reducing dependence on public financing.

To ensure efficiency, transparency, and compliance with national seed quality standards, a main service provider will be retained through a competitive tendering process to implement production activities under the technical supervision of MIDENO and other competent technical services, notably the Regional Delegation of Agriculture and Rural Development (RDARD).

3. Objective

To produce, process, package, and distribute 100 tons of certified wheat seed from 66 hectares in the North West Region, in compliance with national seed quality standards, while ensuring affordability through subsidized pricing and sustainability through a cost-recovery mechanism.

4. Specific Objectives

- Ensure sustainable availability of quality certified wheat seed for vulnerable farmers
- Support trained and certified wheat seed farmers with essential agricultural inputs
- Strengthen community-based wheat seed production systems
- Ensure strict compliance with national wheat seed certification and quality standards
- Improve wheat productivity, food security, and farmer resilience
- Establish a revolving wheat seed production mechanism through partial cost recovery

5. Methodology

Wheat seed production shall be acquired through selected and approved seed multipliers in Mezam, Boyo and Dong/Mantung Divisions.

Key Activities

The retained main service provider shall be responsible for:

- Organizing and coordinating field production activities
- Supporting seed multipliers with production planning and field management
- Facilitating access to foundation seed and fertilizers
- Coordinating harvesting, processing, packaging, and branding
- Supporting seed storage and distribution logistics

Quality Assurance and Supervision

- MIDENO, in collaboration with the competent technical services, shall ensure continuous follow-up to guarantee that all stages of production comply strictly with national seed quality, certification, and phytosanitary standards.
- Field inspections, processing audits, and certification procedures shall be conducted in accordance with applicable regulations.
- Only seed that meets prescribed quality standards shall be approved for packaging and distribution.
- The supplier shall ensure that all foundation seed material is acquired from IRAD

6. Expected Outputs

- 100 tons of certified wheat seed produced and certified
- 66 hectares cultivated under approved seed production standards
- Strengthened technical capacity of wheat seed farmers
- Subsidized distribution of wheat seed to farmers across the North West Region
- Functional revolving mechanism for sustained wheat seed availability

7. Expected Wheat Production from 100 tons of wheat seeds

The distribution of 100 tons of certified wheat seed to smallholder farmers in the North West Region is expected to have a substantial impact on local wheat production. Based on standard agronomic practices, the recommended seeding rate for wheat in the Region is approximately 125 kg per hectare. Consequently, the 100 tons of seed will be sufficient to plant around 800 hectares of farmland.

Assuming an average yield of 2.5 tons of wheat per hectare—consistent with achievable productivity under improved management, provision of essential inputs, and technical support—the 800 hectares cultivated from the distributed seed are projected to produce approximately 2,000 tons of wheat.

This expected output underscores the transformative potential of the intervention: a relatively modest quantity of certified seed can generate significant volumes of wheat, thereby enhancing food security, supporting smallholder livelihoods, and contributing to Cameroon's import substitution objectives under PIISAH. The approach also demonstrates the multiplier effect of investing in certified seed systems, as the revenue recovered from seed sales will be reinvested to ensure sustainable availability for subsequent planting cycles.

8. Implementation Arrangements

- Contracting Authority: Oversight of procurement and contract management
- Main Service Provider (selected through tendering): Execution of wheat seed production, processing, and packaging activities in accordance with contract specifications
- MIDENO: Overall coordination, supervision, monitoring, and management of the subsidy and cost-recovery mechanism
- Technical Services (including RDARD): Field inspection, quality control, and seed certification

8. Duration

The assignment shall cover one wheat production cycle (6–8 months).

9. Reporting

The main service provider shall submit:

- Monthly operational progress reports
- Quarterly technical and financial reports
- A final comprehensive report detailing production results, seed quality compliance, distribution, and cost-recovery performance

Submission of proposal

All potential bidders should submit their proposals in sealed envelopes at the following address:

North West Development Authority (MIDENO) located at Ayaba Street-Bamenda
